BÒRD NA GÀDHLIG ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENT OF A NEW HEAD OF CORPORATE SERVICES

Bòrd na Gàdhlig has today announced the appointment of a new Head of Corporate Services. Alasdair MacKinnon, who takes up the role at the beginning of April. has spent a significant part of his career working at senior management level in the Scottish broadcasting media.

Alasdair MacKinnon hails from the Island of Harris in the Western Isles and has spent over twenty years in broadcasting, working mainly with the BBC and the independent TV sector in Glasgow, Aberdeen, Inverness, Shetland, and Stornoway. He is currently working as Co-ordinator of Colmcille, a joint partnership project developing an understanding of the diverse experience and culture of the Irish and Scottish Gaelic communities and supporting projects which encourage debate on common concerns in social, cultural and economic issues.

Chief Executive at Bòrd na Gàidhlig, John Angus MacKay, welcomed the new appointment saying that "Alasdair will be an asset to the organisation as he brings to the post considerable strategic level business development expertise, an excellent track record in communications and also experience in language development".
